Following town vote not to give Planning Board authority to waive private-road standards: Planning board waives R-O-W width for Will View road

By ALISON ALOISIO

Bethel voters clearly voted "no" at annual Town Meeting to deny a request from the Planning Board that it be given the power to grant private road waivers.

But they also voted "yes" on another proposed ordinance revision -- one that gave planners waiver power on issues relating to subdivisions. And last week, the board used that new-found power to grant a waiver for a private road in the proposed Will View subdivision.

Frank Vogt, chairman of the Planning Board, acknowledged Monday that there could be a perception by some that the board had gone against the intent of the voters at Town Meeting.

But, he said, the other Town Meeting action made it possible for the applicant to legitimately request the waiver, and the board had to consider that.

A landowner who abuts the Sunday River Road development, Sonny Cummings, said Monday he is seeking legal advice regarding the situation.

Cummings and other abutters have followed the progress of the application out of concern for the possible impact on their property.

Vote allows existing road to be used, as DEP recommended.

Background

The planners' vote follows several months of discussion regarding the proposed Will View development, to be located off the Sunday River Road.

The original site plan called for using an existing road as the entrance to the subdivision. Part of its right-of-way does not meet the width requirements spelled out by ordinance. (The right of way is 50 feet wide, rather than the required 60 feet.)

While discussion on Will View was ongoing, planning officials were also preparing a recommendation for Bethel voters to consider. They proposed an ordinance revision which would specifically allow the board to grant waivers on private road standards. Initial plans called for presenting it at a special Town Meeting.

The town's selectmen recommended against a vote at a special meeting. They said it might appear the ordinance was crafted to benefit the Will View development specifically.

Planners had argued the revision was needed anyway, and had been overlooked until recently.

So the proposed revision came to a vote instead at the annual Town Meeting. It was easily defeated. Planner Suzy Harrington spoke against revision, saying it "would only give the developer a helping hand," and would not do anything for the town.

Harrington was the lone planner at last week's board meeting to vote against granting the subdivision waiver. She expressed concern about the legality of the move.

Waiver best for wetlands

Mary Rosberg, Bethel's planning assistant, said she and other planning officials realized the day after Town Meeting that the subdivision

Barbara Inman: 'will not agree'

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Negotiations between the town of Bethel and Barbara Inman appear to have reached a dead end.

The town is attempting to purchase a three-acre property owned by Inman on Songo Pond. The property's 900 feet of shoreline are seen by many in Bethel as a near ideal solution to the town's long-acknowledged need for a public beach.

Price is not the problem. The property is on the market for $425,000, but Inman has agreed to sell it to Bethel for $350,000, and town voters have agreed to spend that much for it.

The problem is Inman's insistence that the deed for the property include a provision guaranteeing residents of Albany Township the same rights to the beach as Bethel residents.

Town officials say there is no reason Albany residents would not be welcome, but the officials also say the town cannot have the deed encumbered by such a stipulation.

Town Meeting voters and the town attorney agree.

There were hopes recently that the June Town Meeting vote in favor of purchasing the beach, and the assurances from all involved on the town's side that Albany residents would be welcomed at the beach would convince Inman to drop her demand that the access-stipulation be part of the deed.

"Will not agree"

But those hopes were dashed earlier this week when the town received a letter from Inman's broker, Janet Truman of Waterford.

"Mrs. Inman notified me this morning she will not agree to transfer the subject property unless her requested restriction regarding the Albany residents is within the deed itself," Truman wrote.

"It is my understanding that, with this stipulation from the seller, this property can no longer be purchased by the town within the

Survey of Newry-Bethel town line is completed

Should resolve long-standing disagreement

By ALISON ALOISIO

Property owners along the new Newry-Bethel town line will likely watch with interest as town officials try to figure out what to do about taxing the properties in the future.

Surveyor Gary Inman presented an almost-final copy of the line to Newry selectmen Tuesday. A court ordered the 7.3-mile-long line be resurveyed several years ago, following a dispute between the towns regarding the boundary. About 20 property owners own land along the line, or on both sides of it.

The newly-surveyed line varies up to a couple of hundred feet in places from the previous one. It must now be determined if the towns need to make adjustments in taxation.

Bethel's current mil rate is 14.35. Newry's has not yet been set for this year. Last year's was 9.8.

Inman suggested a joint meeting between the two towns' boards of selectmen. First-selectman Steve

School budget passes easily in most SAD44 towns

By ALISON ALOISIO

All the articles on Tuesday's SAD44 School Budget referendum passed in all district towns, with the only close vote coming in Andover.

Only a few more than 200 voters turned out district-wide to vote on the FY'00 budget.

The $7.5 million package passed by a 3-1 margin overall. In Andover, however, the margin was close to 50-50.

Eight warrant articles were included on the ballot. Article 6, "additional local funds," passed by the following margin in each town: Andover, 19-16; Bethel, 77-10; Greenwood, 20-3; Newry, 21-7; Woodstock, 30-6.

Those numbers were generally representative of the percentages on all the other warrant articles, Supt. Kent Rosberg said. Article 6 is the article which, in the days of the district-wide budget meeting, generally drew the most attention and discussion.

The FY'00 general fund budget passed Tuesday includes added music and nursing services, as well as an educational technician for Telstar High School, at a total cost of $39,600.

The adult education budget of $197,053 passed 167-43.

The combined general fund and adult education budgets translate to a 3.97 percent increase in the overall assessment to local towns.

Last year's referendum vote saw 475 voters go to the polls, with the budget passing by a similar margin.

This summer's Dial-a-Story features the work of young Bethel-area writers

By ALISON ALOISIO

"When the mother closed the refrigerator, Morton had just enough time to jump in. It was dark in the refrigerator, but Morton used his nose to sniff out the cheese."

Young children calling in to the "Dial-a-Story" program of the Northern Oxford Even Start Family Literacy Program can now hear stories written by authors not much older than they are. Stories like "Morton the Mouse and the Bad Cheese," by sixth-grader Jennifer Hodgkin of Bethel.

Dial-a-Story features a different taped children's story or stories about every two weeks. It can be reached at the phone numbers of each of SAD44's three elementary schools.

Until now, many of the stories have been from old books or authored by program volunteers Caroline Gould and Nan Timberlake. But using professionally-published books is difficult, because copyright approval must be obtained -- a time-consuming and often unsuccessful process, according to Timberlake.

Earlier this year, Gould, a former first-grade teacher, was struck with the inspiration to use stories from sixth-grade teacher Tammy Davis' annual story-writing project. Each year the TMS students write and illustrate their own children's book.

Gould read some of the stories written by this year's crop of young authors. "They're good," she said. For sixth-graders it was an excellent job. These are the stories we really want on Dial-a-Story."

So she set about getting permission from the young writers to read their stories on tape. First up were "Pat's Collection" by Glendon Carver of Bethel and "The Dream" by Kayla Cole of Bryant Pond.

Carver's story describes a mouse who sets out to sell off some of his many belongings, but proves to be a poor salesman because he can't part with them in the end.

Cole writes about her vision of a perfect place to live. The stories are read on tape by Gould, and will run through the middle of next week.

Gould has earmarked 22 stories she would like to use, but is still in the process of getting the writers' permission. Other titles include "Tate's Drawings" by Amy Gaidis of Bryant Pond, "Elini's Visitor," by Sarah Katavolos of Upton, "Buddy Can't Sleep" by Matt Mills of Andover, "Blueberry" by Kevin

BOOSTERS BACK IN ACTION

To the Editor:

After a period of inactivity the Telstar Athletic Booster Club met recently for a re-organizational meeting and to plan for the group's upcoming activities. Discussion was held on refurbishing the existing concession area, giving it a brighter look as well as to make the sales area more user-friendly. A painting committee will be formed at the next meeting, at which time there will be more discussion on cosmetic changes for this area. A movable concession stand is in the works.

Much brainstorming is still needed regarding the design of the Telstar Boosters' "Snack Shack." Volunteers have offered to help with construction, and we hope to get started on this project soon -- any and all volunteers are welcome.

Full sports will soon be here and we are looking for a few hands with knowledge of videotaping. These people could be interested adults or students.

Ongoing fundraising is the collection/return of bottles to the local bottle redemption center for donation toward athletic needs at Telstar. A new idea for raising money is selling raffle tickets on a cord of cut and split firewood donated by Jim Swan and hauled by the Douglass Family. These tickets will be on sale Mollycoddle Day at the Telstar Boosters' concession stand, which plans to sell chili, chili dogs and ice cold drinks.

Officers elected at this meeting were: Merrilee Ojeda, president; Bernice Caddigan, vice president; Teresa Estes, treasurer; Marilyn Swan, secretary. The next meeting will be held on July 6 at 8:30 p.m. at the Telstar concession stand located near the gym at the school.

Lastly, we would like to thank Mrs. Sarah Craig for her many, many hours of volunteer work over the years. She has made such a difference with her wonderful smile, warmth and care, and untiring effort and has been an inspiration for all who worked with her.

Marilyn Swan
Secretary, Telstar Athletic Boosters

ON WITH THE SHOW

To the Editor:

The question I hear the most even before recital is over is: "What are you doing next year?" My answer always is: "I don't know. What do you think I should do?" It's a very difficult decision because it has to have the potential of giving interesting parts to little kids, middle-sized kids, teens and hopefully adults. I need to revise a movie to fit the stage so that the sequence of events makes sense. Not an easy task. But yes, I get the stirrings of excitement for the following year even before the current one is over -- much to the chagrin of my family -- "Cool it, Mom," they say, "Give it a rest," but I go on searching all summer long hoping to find just the right show for the next year.

When I have decided what the show will be, instructors Sheri Wilson, Michele Varoulo, Heather Jordan and I can now put our heads together and start searching for inspiring music and dances to fit the characters in the production. We don't choose the parts right away but rather now have a definite goal to work toward. Neither do we begin recital dances, per se, until March but rather work to build up their choreography skills.

Fortunately for me, the Jordan family, Maryanne, who is the glue that keeps this crazy group together; Troy, who has the vision of a stage artist; Mandy, Heather and Tiffany, who work side by side with us not worrying about when dinner is served, make this all possible.

By Christmas, the exciting word is out. Costumes have to be ordered or they may not arrive in time for June -- believe it or not. Leads have been discussed and watched carefully over this period. Do they look the part? Can they meet the demands of acting the part? Are they willing and able to work long hours and take direction? If they don't drive, can their parents bring them to all rehearsals? These are just a few of the attributes necessary to play a lead. The idea that a senior automatically gets a lead is something the teens themselves created over the years. "It ain't necessarily so." How could, say, five graduating seniors all get the lead -- or -- if we were doing "Hansel and Gretel," would they want to be a Gretel? Let's dispel that myth here and now. But, everyone is given serious consideration. They are all given the power to entertain and intrigue the audience in every phase of the production. Leads cannot carry the show alone. I've seen small parts steal the show.

By March I have set up the sequence of acts and scenes I feel best make for an interesting production. I take my very uptight body over to son Paul's recording studio to CD the whole show. It better be right because there's no changing it after this. This all takes a good part of a week to complete.

By April vacation, we are ready for full-scale rehearsals -- one act at a time. This gives students an opportunity to bond and become familiar with their part in the show -- to get used to performing in front of an audience and perfect their craft. This is what makes Spring Street Dance Theater different.

Recital Week: What Fun. Troy is backstage director, Jim Sysko is in charge of special effects. This year, we had very special help from newcomers Ed Yasko and Dan Ayotte; regular Joe Vedella; props, Patti Parsons, Carrie Sysko, Mandy Jordan, Betty Skalski; and of course our teachers. No one is allowed to meander backstage. One-minute set changes mean you have to sprint. That is why we cannot have too many backstage workers or we'd knock each other over.

Backstage helpers, make-up people, lighting artists and box office workers all are very important. It takes many people with many special talents to put on a production of this size.

My sincere thanks to all the wonderful students for their excellent work. Thank you for the lovely roses I am enjoying right now -- and the picnic table I will enjoy all summer long. Come by and say hello.

Teachers Sheri Wilson, Michele Varoulo and Heather Jordan all thank you, also, and everyone else that helped us along the way -- I haven't forgotten you.

Have a great summer and we'll see you in the fall for Dance and Readers Theater.

ROTARY GOLF TOURNAMENT THANKS

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Bethel Rotary Club, I would like to extend my sincere appreciation to all of the participants and sponsors who helped to make our fourth annual Rotary Golf Tournament such a success. We were able to raise almost $5,000 to go toward a variety of worthwhile local and international Rotary projects.

I would like to extend a special thanks to the following people: Bob and Cynthia Laux, who organized the event and saw to it that everything went smoothly; Jason Hurd and Heidi Davidson from the Bethel Inn & Country Club; Northeast Bank, our lead sponsor.

It is only with the generous support of many individuals and area businesses that our fundraising efforts are made possible. Thank you.

In Our Backyard:

Three frequent questions

Q. I always thought Maine's air was clean, but lately I've heard that air pollution can be a problem here. Is our air ever unhealthy to breathe?

A. Yes, especially in southern Maine. The biggest problem is ground-level ozone, the main ingredient in smog. Each summer, hundreds of Mainers visit hospital emergency rooms because of breathing problems caused by air pollution.

Ground-level ozone smog forms during the warm weather when pollution from vehicles, power plants, industry and households "bakes" in the hot sun. While natural ozone in the "ozone layer" high above the earth protects life from the sun's harmful rays, ozone pollution at ground level makes it hard for even healthy people to breathe. And for those with respiratory conditions like asthma, it's even worse.

There were 11 days last summer during which levels of ozone pollution exceeded the federal health standard, and one day so far this summer. Sometimes when Maine's air is unhealthy, the cause is mainly pollution blowing in from states to our south, but sometimes the pollution that affects us is primarily home-grown.

Q. Can I clean up the mess of bushes and trees along the lake or stream in my yard?

A. First, let's talk about the "mess." What people consider a mess is actually Mother Nature's erosion control. The alder, willow, maple and cedar root systems create a strong mesh to hold the soil in place and resist wave action and currents. By removing this ribbon of forest along your lake or stream you destabilize the shoreline.

The waterside forest also acts as a filter for pollutants that may run off our yards, like spilled oil or gas, fertilizers or eroded soil from a driveway. These wooded areas also provide important shade to keep streams cold, which brook trout need.

We encourage homeowners to leave the "mess" and adhere to state and municipal ordinances that prohibit complete clearing. If you are still interested in removing the natural habitat, please contact your local office of the DEP and your municipality. Describe exactly what you wish to do and they will advise you on permitting options.

Q. Is it okay to throw my used batteries in the trash?

A. It depends on what type of battery you have. Regular alkaline batteries, the non-rechargeable ones you use in a flashlight or Walkman, are now made without mercury and can be thrown in the trash. Older alkaline batteries can contain high levels of mercury and should not be thrown in the trash. Clues on whether you have a newer alkaline battery are: there are testers on them, the battery states "mercury free" or "no mercury added," the battery was bought in the last five years (U.S. battery manufacturers), or for Eveready, Energizer or Duracell the battery has a green tree or states "environmentally friendly."

Other batteries, like rechargeable (NiCd) batteries and the little ones used in watches, contain heavy metals, which are very toxic. You should not throw these in the trash because if they go to a landfill or an incinerator, the toxins may be released to the environment, where they can get in our air, water and food.

Rechargeable NiCd batteries can be taken to most Wal-Mart, Radio Shacks and hardware stores for recycling. To find the location closest to you, call (800) 8-BATTERY.

For watch batteries, you can call your local jeweler to see if they will take them. These batteries contain recoverable quantities of silver and are often collected by jewelers for their silver content.

E-mail your environmental questions to infodep@state.me.us or send them to In Our Backyard, Maine DEP, 17 State House Station, Augusta, ME 04333. They will be answered in this column.

Ask a Lawyer:

Question: I currently have custody of my six-year-old daughter. I would like to move out-of-state to be with my family (in Vermont). My ex-husband said he will file papers so I cannot leave the state. I have already given a two-month notice to my landlord. Can my ex-husband stop me from moving out-of-state with my daughter?

Answer: I am assuming by your use of the term "full custody" that you mean you have primary residence of your daughter. For purposes of your question, I am also assuming that your ex-husband has a traditional, non-primary residential, parent/child contact schedule, such as every other weekend and shared school vacations.

In Maine, there is no such legal term as "full custody." In Maine, parents can have one of three types of parental rights and responsibilities (formerly called "11 custody"): shared, sole or allocated. When a parent has "shared" parental rights and responsibilities, most or all of the aspects of a child's welfare remain the joint responsibility and right of both parents, so that both parents retain equal parental rights and responsibilities, and both parents confer and make joint decisions regarding the child's welfare. This would include such areas as education, religious upbringing, medical and childcare arrangements. Parents can have shared parental rights and responsibilities regardless of where the child lives. On the other hand, when one parent has "sole" parental rights and responsibilities, that parent has exclusive parental rights and responsibilities (decision-making power) with respect to all aspects of a child's welfare, other than the right and responsibility for child support. In rare situations, the parents may have "allocated" parental rights and responsibilities. In this situation, the various aspects of a child's welfare are divided between the parents with each parent having a particular responsibility and the right to control that aspect of the child's welfare.

Because you indicated that you have "full custody," I am assuming that this means you have sole parental rights and responsibilities and that your child resides primarily with you. In the event that you have sole parental rights and responsibilities, you have no obligation to consult with the other parent in making a decision as to whether or not a move out-of-state would be in your child's best interest. However, even if you are not required to consult with your ex-husband about your decision to move out-of-state, you are required by Maine law to notify your ex-husband of your intended relocation. Maine law requires that at least 30 days before a parent intends to relocate with a child, the relocating parent must provide notice to the other parent of the intended relocation. If the relocation must occur in less than 30 days, the relocating parent must provide notice as soon as possible to the other parent. There is an exception to this law that applies when a relocating parent believes that notifying the other parent will cause danger to the parent or the child. In that situation, the parent is required to notify the court of the intended relocation. The court will then provide appropriate notice to the other parent in a manner determined to provide safety to the relocating parent and child. Assuming that you do have sole parental rights and responsibilities and primary residence of your daughter, there is nothing to prevent you from moving out-of-state with your daughter. However, you must notify your ex-husband of your intended relocation. It is also advisable that you assist your ex-husband in maintaining a relationship with your daughter.

Although you may be free to relocate with your daughter, assuming that you have sole parental rights and responsibilities, your ex-husband may go back to court seeking to amend your Divorce Judgment to revisit the issue of parental rights and responsibilities and primary residence of your child. In order for the court to amend a child custody arrangement, the parent wishing to have it modified must be able to show that a substantial change in circumstances exists. Depending on the relationship and contact schedule that your ex-husband currently has with your daughter, a substantial change in circumstances may or may not be present because of your decision to move out-of-state. For that reason, it is important for you to try to resolve the matter with your ex-husband, such as agreeing to share the transportation responsibilities for your child's contact with her father. In the event that your ex-husband brings you back to court in an attempt to amend the Divorce Judgment, I strongly recommend that you retain an attorney for representation.

Mead will cut 200 jobs

RUMFORD--Two hundred employees are expected to be laid off by the end of the year at Mead Publishing Paper Division, the company said Tuesday. The job cuts will result from the planned shutdown of four uncoated paper machines. An industry analyst said that increased competition from Asia and Latin America has hurt U.S. paper companies. Of 50 salaried employees who will lose their positions, 23 worked out of a Portland sales office. That office will be closed. The salaried personnel will be offered the opportunity to work at other Mead operations outside Maine. All employees will be given a minimum 60-day notice.

2,000 little Anguses?

BETHEL--The first Snowman Festival -- scheduled for January of 2000 -- will carry a challenge to build 2,000 snowmen in six weeks, according to the event's sponsor, the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce. The 2,000 snowmen will mark the year 2000 -- and commemorate the first anniversary of the world record "Angus, King of the Mountain" snowman built in 1999. The festival will start the weekend of Jan. 8 and 9 with an Angus look-alike contest. Teams of four people will try to build the best replica of the 113-foot Angus.

Insurance co. has fire case

NEWRY--A threatened lawsuit case against the town of Newry is now in the hands of the town's insurance company. The suit has been threatened by the Nationwide Mutual Fire Insurance Co. as a result of a gas explosion that destroyed a duplex in Viking Village last fall. The explosion, contends the company, resulted from failure by the Newry Fire Department to follow proper procedure in ventilating the duplex after responding to a gas-leak call. The insurance company wants the town to pay $146,697 in losses from the incident. The town is insured through a Maine Municipal Association insurance agent. Sylvia Gray, Newry administrative assistant, said MMA described the case as "very defensible."

Speed limit signs going up

NEWRY--Speed limit signs will be placed in Sunday River Village as a result of a resident's concerns about speeding cars. David Schlieper told selectmen that some residents and their guests drive the village's roads too fast, causing a safety threat to children and pedestrians. They also disregard stop signs, he said. One vehicle Schlieper observed was traveling at approximately 65 miles per hour, he estimated. Selectmen decided to place several signs on the village roads designating the speed limit at 25 m.p.h.

Parade theme: 20th century

BETHEL--The theme for this year's Mollycodd Day Parade, to be held July 17, is "20th Century Memories." Float designs should reflect highlights of the last 100 years of history. The parade begins at 11 a.m. from the Big Apple on Railroad Street. Participants should arrive at 10:30 a.m. to begin staging. For more information call 824-3575.

Lobster raffle for MLT

BETHEL--Also on Mollycodd Day, the Mahosuc Land Trust will hold the drawing for its annual fund raising raffle to help pay the costs of running its office and taking care of its properties. The prize is 20 pounds of Maine lobster delivered to Bethel. If the winner chooses to buy the lobster himself, MLT will reimburse the cost at the prevailing price. Raffle tickets, at a cost of $1 each or six for $5, are available from MLT members or at the Main Street office.

Beane receives honorable mention

BETHEL--Abbie Beane, who will be a senior this fall at Telstar High School, received Honorable Mention in recent All-State Girls' track selections. Beane was the Class C state champion in the long jump. She also competed in the New England Championships held at Brown University in Providence, R.I.

Bancroft purchases electrical co.

PARIS--Bancroft Contracting Corporation, based in South Paris, recently purchased Express Electrical Constructors, Inc., of Skowhegan. Express has been subcontracting to Bancroft for five years, servicing the pulp and paper industry in Maine and New Hampshire. Express Electrical Constructors was formed in 1988 by Jim Léo and Jay Mitchell. Work has included paper-making processes, boiler operations, waste treatment facilities, and cogeneration. The company has successfully completed projects throughout the United States, as well as in the Republic of China. The majority of the work has been in the pulp and paper industry in Maine. Bancroft Contracting Corporation was formed in 1977, when Al Bancroft purchased the construction division of P.H. Chadbourn Company in Bethel. Bancroft had been supervising this division since 1972, working in the paper mill and utility markets. Since 1977, the company has grown steadily, and is currently doing in excess of $15 million in sales annually. Approximately 85 percent of this work is in paper mills, with the balance distributed among sawmill, hydroelectric, manufacturing plant and civil work.

Tax rate drops

WEST PARIS--Selectmen last week lowered the tax rate by 25 cents to $15.75 per $1,000 of value. Tax bills were expected to be mailed today (Thursday) and will be due Nov. 12. The bills this year will be itemized to show what portions go to the town, the county and SAD17. The town's total expenses are $1,007,674.

Lynx reproducing in Maine

AUGUSTA--The discovery of two Canada lynx kittens in northwestern Maine by wildlife biologists June 18 confirms that the rare cats reproduce in the state. The kittens, one male and one female, were found while the biologists were tracking an adult female lynx they had radio-collared last March. The lynx was later observed traveling with two smaller lynx, presumably her offspring, along logging roads. When her movements stopped at the end of May the biologists suspected she had established a den to give birth to a litter of kittens. Canada lynx, the only lynx species in North America, are medium-sized wild cats that live in extreme northern forests worldwide. They were historically found throughout much of Canada, the northern forests of the U.S., and the sub-alpine forests of the central and southern Rocky Mountains. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has proposed listing them as a threatened species in 16 of the lower 48 states, because of a perceived decline in population numbers and a reduction in the amount of suitable habitat occupied by the animals. The service recently extended the proposal for six months to consider additional scientific information.

"Jet ski" ban process not popular

ACTON--A state representative from Acton has his own theory about why many residents in his district aren't making use of a state law that lets them restrict "jet skis" used on nearby lakes. Richard Nass says his constituents would have preferred the outright ban the Legislature considered last year. "When I went around to the lake associations last summer and described the process they would have to go through, there seemed to be a silence," said Nass, whose district includes many lakes and ponds. There have been complaints from across the state about the sound and manner of operation of the craft.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Chair thief doesn't get far

At 9:10 p.m. on June 23 a subject was observed stealing several small chairs from the entrance of a Route 2 business. After taking the initial complaint, the officer located the subject at a relative's home. After a brief interview, the subject confessed, and the chairs were also located. Kimberly M. Day, 28, of Bethel was given a summons for theft.

Thursday, June 24

At 8:30 p.m. police stopped a vehicle on Route 2 for an expired inspection sticker. The driver was found to be operating after suspension. A check of the vehicle information found the vehicle was unregistered and the plates were illegally attached. The vehicle was impounded and the driver, Mikael Reinoso, 34, of Bethel was arrested and taken to the Oxford County Jail. He was given summonses for the offenses.

Friday, June 25

At 7:45 p.m. police were dispatched to the East Bethel Road for a report of an elderly woman who had just been assaulted by a man. When police arrived, the woman had gone home, but the subject was also still at her residence. The officer went to that residence and was shown a bruise on the woman's arm, where he had reportedly grabbed her. The subject appeared outside and admitted he had grabbed her. The man was asked to put his hands on a car in the driveway, but he objected. A physical struggle followed as the officer tried to place handcuffs on the man. Bethel Rescue had also responded to the call, and the attendants called backup for the officer. An attendant also helped the officer gain control of the man. Wendell H. Tyler of Bethel was arrested for simple assault and taken to the Oxford County Jail.

Conservation Tips:

Making "brown gold": During the Middle Ages, many people searched for a way to turn lead into gold. While no one has ever managed to do that, you can very easily turn your vegetable food waste into compost, or "brown gold." By doing so, you improve your soil and save your town cash that would be spent hauling the garbage.

Composting doesn't have to be a lot of work. Just piling your yard, garden and vegetable food wastes in a corner of your property, and waiting patiently, will yield compost in a year or two. It is even possible to add some food wastes, like coffee grounds and crushed eggshells, directly to the soil in your garden. However, for a faster, more uniform result, here are some tips for starting and maintaining a good compost pile.

1. The successful compost pile has four components -- carbon, nitrogen, water and oxygen. Your vegetable food wastes are a good source of nitrogen, needed by the microbes that do the decomposing.
2. Locate your compost pile near a source of water so that it is easy for you to keep it moist. This helps to speed decomposition.
3. Turn the pile to add oxygen, distribute moisture evenly, and increase the efficiency of decomposition. Once a week is ideal, but it can be done less often.
4. To avoid pest problems, be sure to mix your vegetable food wastes in well when you add them.
5. Make the pile at least 3 feet x 3 feet x 3 feet, but not much larger than 4 feet x 4 feet x 4 feet. Smaller piles won't heat up; larger ones won't have enough oxygen in the center of the pile. Either way your pile will decompose very slowly.

A great publication on a small-scale food and yard waste composting is available through the UMaine Cooperative Extension (743-6329) or directly from the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service (607-255-7654).

Just remember the garden golden rule: As long as there are wastes available, compost them.

conditions of the current offer and/or vote," Truman wrote. "Therefore, Mrs. Inman has further instructed me to pursue other buyers for the property at this time."

Selectman Don Bennett, who is chairman of the ad hoc Songo Pond Beach Committee, said Wednesday that further negotiations on the Songo Pond property are now unlikely.

"We're 99 percent sure that we're at the end of that kind of a negotiation," he said.

Inman said Wednesday, "I'm just awfully sorry for both towns. I just tried to do something nice, but now everybody is going to lose, except us."

Inman added she had been particularly interested in providing a place for the children of the two towns, but in the end, "I had to do what I had to do."

Bennett acknowledged he has been contacted by some Bethel residents who have said they see no problem with having the access stipulation in the deed -- asking: "What's the problem of living with that?"

But rejection of the stipulation at Town Meeting was overwhelming, he said, and the town attorney is adamant that it would be irresponsible from a legal point of view for the town to enter into such an arrangement.

"You just can't have that kind of a restriction," Bennett said. "It won't work. You just can't do it."

The selectmen and members of the beach committee were attempting to set up a meeting for tonight (Thursday) to discuss their options, Bennett said.

Selectman Reggie Brown said Wednesday that even if this deal is not to be, the possibility of purchasing the Songo Pond property appears to have catalyzed long-simmering sentiment in town that Bethel should develop some type of swimming/recreation facility for its residents, especially for its younger residents.

The possibility of building a pool or purchasing another shorefront property have been discussed, and Bennett said, "I guess we'll go on to Plan B."

Waiver

ordinance revision would allow the board to waive the road width requirement. Lisa Scott, Bethel's code enforcement officer, pointed it out.

The subdivision revision was not proposed with Will View in mind, Rosberg said, but came out of an earlier recommendation from town attorney Geoff Hole.

The previous language had referred to the board having the right to grant a variance. Technically, only the Board of Appeals has the right to grant a variance. The wording was changed to instead give power for granting waivers, which are allowed. There was no discussion about this revision at Town Meeting.

At last week's Planning Board meeting the board concluded that granting the right-of-way waiver made sense environmentally. During the time that the use of the existing road was in doubt, the Will View developer made an alternative arrangement to build a separate, new entrance to the subdivision.

But state Department of Environmental Protection officials recommended the existing road be used because it would have less impact on nearby wetland areas. Board members concluded -- with very little discussion -- that this was the better plan, once townspeople had voted the waiver.

Only the right of way has been waived. The road itself in the waived section will not appear any different than the parts of the road that will conform to ordinance, Rosberg said.

(The writer is married to Joseph Aloisio, who did some engineering work for the Will View project.)

Survey

Wight agreed. Dealing with the various property owners would likely be easier, he said, if the two towns can first agree on a procedure.

Inman noted much of the land runs through wooded areas, making the situation less complex than it might be if, for instance, housing developments were involved.

The line must also be cleared sometime in the next few years. Inman's crew blazed trees and ran tape along the line. He estimated those marks would be good for roughly five years.

It should eventually be cleared to a width of four feet -- not an easy prospect considering some of the tree damage from the 1998 ice storm, he said.

Inman plans to present his town line drawings to the Bethel selectmen in the near future. The Newry officials plan to contact their Bethel counterparts regarding a joint meeting.

Bethel

by Virginia Keniston
There will be an open house for Grace P. Morrill's 90th birthday on July 4 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. at the Norway Rehabilitation Center located at 24 Marion Avenue in Norway. Relatives and friends are welcome.

Jane Young and granddaughter, Laurie Young, enjoyed an 11-day trip to Alaska. They cruised the Inside Passage stopping at towns along the way, rode the narrow gauge railway to White Pass visited Denali State Park, the Glacier Portage and many more interesting places. They also went white-water rafting. Many animals were seen, including the great grizzly up close.
Archie and Rick Young recently enjoyed a few days at Grant's Camp.

The Quilt Luncheon at the Dr. Moses Mason House last Friday and Saturday was excellent. I went both days.

If you're not in my column, it's because you haven't called. Please call 824-2661.

The Keniston daughters and mom were at camp this past week. No dogs, no kids, no men. A wonderful week was spent doing crafts, relaxing, spinning, etc.

Correction: Ruth Silver will undergo surgery on Friday, July 2. Tom and Rebecca Zicarelli celebrated their 18th wedding anniversary this past week.

Susan Ivey and children, Mark and Scott, of Brookline, Mass., were weekend guests of Tom and Rebecca Zicarelli. Mark is staying on for the week.

Fran and Dick Bernier hosted a party last Saturday in honor of her father, Bill Minty, and cousin, Myra, of Aberdeen, Scotland. Clint Schum played the bagpipes to about 30 guests attending the festivities.

Grace Hout of South Africa recently visited the Bethel quilt group. She is spending five weeks at a timeshare in the area.

Charlotte Gill of Anchorage, Alaska, a visitor at the home of Barb and Rudi Honkala, also visited the quilt group.

Alden and Mabel Kennett recently returned from a camping trip which was taken in celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Stowell are enjoying several weeks in Bethel visiting friends and relatives and for Mike to pursue continued genealogical research of his ancestors.

Colin Wagner of Dennyville is spending two weeks with his grandparents, Bob and Polly Davis.

Chessie Smith has just returned from a sailing trip with her owners, Diane and Brad Smith of Chestnut Knoll. The trip started in Porto, San Giorgio on the Adriatic and ended in Port Manon, Menorca. She fell in only once and was promptly rescued.

Pauline and Lindley Wieden spent Tuesday and Wednesday, June 22 and 23, in Boothbay Harbor celebrating their wedding anniversary. While there, the Tall Ships came into the harbor in full sail, which was a delightful sight to behold.

Saturday, June 26, the Wiedens went to Skowhegan to be part of a baby shower for their grandson and wife, Lon and Lisa Miller. There were 27 family members and friends in attendance. A cookout was also enjoyed by all. They spent the night with their daughter and husband, Sylvia and Don. LaFlamme in Vienna. They accompanied Sylvia to church, after which they returned to Bethel.

The Bethel House

by Ruth Cummings
Nancy and Sonny Cummings have returned from a trip to Alabama and Georgia where they visited with Nancy's sister, Ruth Sorofman, her granddaughter, Lena, their daughter, Rachel Thorne and family, as well as other family members. They also attended the high school graduation of their grandson, Brian Thorne.

Joe and Josephine Lougee of Rochester, N.H., spent Friday night with Rebecca Ricker at the Bethel House, and on Saturday they went shopping and ate out at Kentucky Fried Chicken.

Carolyn Chase has moved from the Bethel House to Bryant Pond.

Judy Lavers, manager, was at the Bethel House recently.

Some from the Bethel Alliance

MOVING UP MAIN STREET—Books 'n Things, formerly located in Philbrook Place, has moved up Main Street to the Holiday House. Owners Scott and Sandy Dennis recently purchased the house, which is located across the street from the Bethel Post Office. They will continue to operate it as a bed and breakfast, with the bookstore located in the rear of the building. Here, Sandy and daughter Erin stock the shelves Monday in preparation for the opening of the shop. It is now open for business.

Church had a cookout at the Bill and Davene Mitchell farm on Blake Hill recently. I did not attend because it is so hard for me to get around outside and I need a table for my lunch and drink. All those that did attend had a great time. I am looking forward to this fall and winter when we will be having some potluck suppers at the church.

Judy Gagnon of Cumberland Center spent the weekend with her mother, Irene Russell, at the Bethel House and they went shopping and ate at Chef's Table.

The Bethel Foodliner is a great place to shop now that they carry Hannaford brand products. Prices on those products are so much cheaper. They still have the same quality of very good meat and a nice selection of produce as well as the same friendly service.

Paul Bartlett visited his mother recently at the Bethel House.

Nancy and Sonny Cummings treated me to a meal at the Rebel on Saturday and then we went for a ride over Paradise and Grover Hill. It was a real treat for me to get out awhile.

Larry Crocker is delivering the paper at the Bethel House while Kim Shannon is on three months' leave of absence to have chemo treatments.

Grace Morrill was at one time a resident of the Bethel House. She is now at the Norway Convalescent Home on Marion Avenue in Norway. She will be 90 on July 4 and would appreciate birthday cards.

The ladies trio "By His Grace" had a mini concert at the Bethel Alliance Church on the 20th. It was very nice. They were accompanied by Judy Webster on the piano. Ben Conant will be guest speaker on July 4. Remember you are always welcome at the Bethel Alliance Church. We are all one big family. On Sunday the 20th we had a fellowship hour after church.

Irene Russell joined other family members for a cookout at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Stearns and sons, Justin and Brendon, in Locke Mills on Sunday.

Elaine Dresser was at the Bethel House on Monday, the 21st, and visited with some of the residents and posted notices saying that she was treating them to strawberry shortcake at 2 p.m. on the 24th in the community room.

Vada Glover visited me on Tuesday. We went to the post office, the store, had a great lunch at Frozen Logger and a sandwich at the Rebel at night. It was so nice that we spent a lot of time out on the porch and still found time to play cribbage. Now at 257 games, I am five ahead. But the tables will turn and I will get way behind and stay there for months.

Elaine Dresser, Arlene Lowell and Cathy Newell were in Denmark at the Bucknell Farm picking strawberries on Tuesday. They got an early start. They found the picking good and Cathy was back at my apartment at 9 a.m. with some very nice berries for me.

Cathy Newell visited with Vada and I awhile when she brought the berries.

Vada told me of the time when her daughter Cheryl and her son David were very young. Cheryl was just starting school and David was a preschooler. She took them to have shots for something and Cheryl had her shot first and did not cry. She said to David, "See, Cheryl did not cry when she had her shot." Then she took David for his and when he was finished with his shot he was smiling and she said, "You were a very good boy, you did not cry either." David replied, "My face was smiling, but my belly was crying."

Hi readers. Once again, it's news time. People in the city sometimes ask what do you do in the country. If they lived here year round, they'd find out there's plenty to do.

Last Saturday the Church Thrift and Bake sales did very well. They are on every Saturday you know, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Some things that didn't sell on Saturday went on Sunday morning after church services. There were a good number of people there Sunday and Cindy Stafford sang a solo. She has a beautiful singing voice (just like her mother). Also the organ played Clean water...

It's more than just a pretty picture.
Clean water is essential for our tourism and fishing industries, our health and our recreation.
But Maine's water quality is in danger. Our lakes, rivers and coastal waters are threatened by pollution from run-off and toxic chemicals.
There are things you can do in your home and community to protect Maine's waters.

by Marjorie Kimball and the piano played by Sonja Millett together are very enjoyable. They play well together.

The Oxford Hills Clergy Association will host a Hymn Sing on July 1 at 6:30 p.m. at Moore Park in South Paris. Bring a chair.

Last Thursday the church supper did very well with a good turnout of people and there was plenty of food. We do appreciate and thank the young people of town who help on the work of these suppers.

Have you been strawberry picking yet? We went on the first day and were the first customers at Barton's Farm. We were up there before 7 a.m. and back home by 8 a.m. with our trays full. It was like the three little pigs story when they went out and back before the big bad wolf came. The berries are good and a good portion is in the freezer now. Of course, we did have strawberry shortcake and fresh berries with cream, yum.

This last Saturday a nice baby shower was given for Kara Jones at the community room at the Stoneham Fire Station. It was given by family and she got many nice gifts. Refreshments of chips, veggies and dips, finger rolls and a beautifully decorated cake were served with coffee and punch.

Eric Nelson has finished college and is working at Wiles Funeral Home in Wilton.

The Oxford County Sheriff's Department TRIAD Program -- seniors and lawmen together are putting on a "Senior Appreciation Day" program and cookout picnic for Oxford County Senior Citizens 50 years and older on July 9 at the Fryeburg Fairgrounds from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. This is all free and the menu includes hot dogs, hamburgers, potato salad, potato chips, ice cream, cookies and drinks.

We went last year and it was a very good lunch and program. It is sponsored by the area Oxford County businesses.

There will be a church supper at the North Waterford Church on July 6 and a supper at Hunt's Corner on July 8 at 5 p.m.

Greenwood City

One morning the sun broke through the haze and the mountain ridges thrust up like dark islands in a misty sea. Clouds floated in the sky and shadows trailed across the land.

I looked across to the mouth of the river and in memory visited it.

I was greeted by the cedar waxwing dressed in his robe, delicate and silky in texture. Up the river I found my old stopping place. So I anchored beneath a shady tree. All was still and I breathed balsam-scented air. There were many little things of interest around me that mingled with the song of the thrush.

Now I'm home and it's evening and I live with my pond reflections. If I reflect on my small pond/It glides through my mind/And memories come and go/About things that I used to find.

Above the waters, when smooth and blue/Enchanted with pure grace/Bloomed the pond lily so bright/And I'd look down to see my face.

I'd row down through the pads/Water splashing by my side/Water bugs and dragon flies/Dashed away to go and hide.

There's something about a boat ride/That is happy and free/Like turning back pages in time/To the days that used to be.

So many hours I have spent/Up the river under a tree/Just boat, the whispering leaves/The sky, fresh air -- and me.

The waters are pure, shallow and bright/And clear, where eddies play/The flowers are the fairest there/So inviting I want to stay.

So whenever I feel sad and lonely/I go to this tranquil pond/And happy memories return; bringing things of which I'm fond.

On Sunday the Holt families, Robert, Ann, David and Leonas and Fay, who celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary, met at David's, Sally's and Mary's in Norway. We had a cookout and fun.

The fishermen are still having fun early mornings on the pond.

One night I had an unknown visitor and all of my bird feeders were taken down. One pole was pulled up, but I felt really the worst about the hummingbird feeder, which was taken down and broken into pieces. It was hanging high up on the porch. It is still a mystery to me.

Congratulations to Hazel Dillingham who is retiring after 40 years of service to the Oxford County government. Hazel worked in the District Attorney's office prior to retirement. She spent 15 and a half years proofreading handwritten deeds in the Registry of Deeds' office prior to working for the District Attorney. There was a nice article in the Lewiston Sun last week about her. Hazel once lived in South Woodstock and attended Woodstock High School. We wish her the best of luck and happiness in the future.

Friends and relatives are invited to attend the 70th wedding anniversary party of Elmer and Eda Waterhouse. The celebration will be held July 18 from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. at Ledgeview Nursing Home in the Anderson Hall. Eda and Elmer are still very active and I understand that Eda is in the process of writing a book. They do not want any gifts and just want to share memories and meet their many friends.

I was sorry to hear about Stephen King's accident. Mr. King gave the Woodstock Library a substantial amount of money in past years. We wish him a speedy recovery.

JoAnna Poland has returned to Mobile, Ala. She will visit with Andrew Merrill and friend in South Carolina on her way back.

Those making the honor roll this term at Telstar Regional High School are: Jeffrey Chandler, Brandy Poland, Neil Thurlow, Jeremy Curley, Emily Phillips, Lacy Phillips, Tricia Hadley and Caitlin Gallagher; Telstar Middle School are Darcy Tyler and Daniel Morgan; Woodstock Elementary School are: Kara Thurlow, Randi Mack, Kevin Gallagher and Bill Demarest and at Crescent Park, Chea Davis.

Rick and Sally Wing came over from Bridgton for Father's Day on Saturday. They filled us in on some news that Ryan Wing has been working in Puerto Rico and Doug Wing and Wes Smith are also working on jobs in California and Texas. They all work for Yankee Microwave based in Naples.

Kellie and Brad Record came up Sunday evening for Father's Day. We had a good time visiting. Everyone's so busy we don't have time to even see our children very much.

Richard Wing is off for a couple of days from work. He went to the dentist for a filling one morning. Those celebrating birthdays in July are: Joe Pete Appleby, Stephanie Appleby, Sarah Clements, Cylas Cash, Suzi Curry, Judy Green, Lee Herick, Pat Hart, Wayne Lawrence, Bethany Lowe, Carolyn Lowe, Kalvin Mason, Rebecca Mason, Terry Merrill, Minna Morgan, Sheldon Morgan, Dylan and Derick Poland (twins), Peggy Roberts, Alex Ryerson, Vince Stevens, Darcy Tyler, Larry Wilday and Andrea Wing. A special birthday wish to my husband Richard. Also happy birthday to someone who turns "60" this July 18, is one of Woodstock's selectmen, and is sometimes known as "Baby Leon." Happy birthday to everyone.

Larry Billings, curator of the Woodstock Historical Society, reports that the museum has received a fancy vase, some art and a book on theology. The Billings family is interested in genealogy. Mary has done extensive research and keeps a large book with the family tree. Larry is fascinated that so many of their ancestors were very distinguished, from King Edward IV to governors of New Hampshire to soldiers at Lexington, Concord and Bunker Hill. Other society members have also traced their roots. It can be very interesting.

do special tasks for him and gave several examples. Then, he reached into the pulpit and picked up a big 9 and a 0 and held them up for all to see. He then proceeded to dedicate the remainder of his sermon to Doris Brown, who was celebrating her 90th birthday that day. Among other things, he invited members of the congregation to stand and tell some of their experiences with Doris.

Without exception, nearly half the congregation stood (one at a time) and told how Doris had always remembered special days, family events or tragedies and always had just the right words to say, either on the phone or in notes or cards. She has been an inspiration to us all and is in every way just a nice person all-around. It was pretty unique to have people talking about someone like that at an occasion other than a funeral.

In another vein, I spent the weekend re-learning the joys of haying the way we used to do it. On Saturday morning, I mounted Brother Rupert's '36 Alice Chalmers tractor with its original mowing machine attachment and mowed most of the big field across the road from the barn. He always parks the "Alice" on a hill, so he can start it by letting it roll; the hand crank has long since been thrown away, after kicking and banging somebody's wrist one too many times. I had almost forgotten the challenges of mowing over "low-rise" rocks and around big ones and around the gardens without either mowing something I shouldn't or getting the end of the cutter bar into the dirt.

On Sunday (after church, of course), it was Rupert on his new '51 or '52 Farmall Cub pulling Ina atop the old horse rake, raking the hay into windrows. Then, along came Mona aboard my Kubota, pulling the '40-something four-wheel wagon which we used as a hay wagon. Then, I used the most modern '60's version hay loader, a three-time pitchfork, to build the hay load. After about six hours of sweat and hay chaff, I was finished haying for the day -- and for the year. The ol' swimmin' hole sure felt good after that. Now, all we have to do is find a beef creature to feed the hay to.

1999 Babe Ruth Champs

The Bethel Babe Ruth baseball team won the Tri-County League Championship Monday, defeating #1-seeded Norway 14-1. Bethel entered the playoffs as a wild-card team, and beat squads from South Paris, Oxford and Raymond in early-round action over the weekend. The team finished the season and playoffs with an overall record of 15-7. Shown here are, front (from left): Bill Murphy, Kane Olson, Mike Sabin, Kurt Wight, Travis Brooks, Jay Aloisio. Second row: Anthony Liberti, Wade Osgood, Gavin Palmer, Mike Swan, Josh Aylward, Ben Sabin. Back: coaches Roger Sabin, Don Aylward and head coach Jim Osgood.

Upton

by Eleanor LeCompte

I needed eight days to complete all the plans I made for last week. Between the coughing, sneezing and groaning, I was able to leave a lot of tire wear on Route 26.

The Scenic Byway Committee met on Thursday. In spite of the rain, we were able to complete our bus trip through the Notch and up to Upton. Sunday River graciously lent us their trolley bus. We had the advice of the park ranger, a traffic expert, public citizens with opinions, and all in all it was a fruitful trip. Safety at turnouts and parking areas was stressed most often. Willard Wight presented maps of Grafton homesites before it ceased to be a town.

It was bittersweet to see the beautiful views and to remember that there were homes and families not too many years ago. Almost all traces of their habitation are gone. The cellar holes are gradually filling in, but the cemeteries remind us that it was a very hard life for those people. Though it all seems in vain, a historical marker was suggested in their memory.

I gave a brief history of Upton. We also have a fine history, but continue to flourish and battle it out in spite of a remote geographical location. The lake and the sunsets are our crown jewels. There are also many cultivated gardens and wild flowers in profusion.

We returned to the Newry town office for refreshment and a short meeting. The next meeting will be July 14 at 7 p.m. at the Newry town office. The public is invited to attend.

Congratulations to Simone and George Hamel, who were feted at a Golden Anniversary celebration at the Town and Country Inn in Gorham, N.H. Sandy and Gene Wixom are also to be congratulated on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary. That totals up to 90 years of wedded bliss. They are to be commended for staying power. Both couples have good supportive families that enjoy each other's company.

Evelyn Kenney and I attended the Middle Intervale Meeting House Quilt Show and the luncheon at the Moses Mason House. It was a fine day and the quilts to be raffled are works of art. Thank you to the ladies that present this event every year.

A neighbor from Back Street called to advise us that two large dogs were running through the woods with fur and tongues flying. They obviously were chasing something. The weather was 80 degrees. The dogs were hot and exhausted so their quarry, whatever it was, must have been in poor shape, also. The owners should be aware that this is not the season to let dogs run. The dogs have dropped their fawns and are quite vulnerable. There are leash laws to protect animals from their natural instincts to pursue other animals, whatever the weather.

We had a night visitor twice this week. Boris, the bear, ate both suet balls, ate all the birdseed, and tromped the impatiens. He also left a slimy nose mark on the side of the house. If he gets any closer, he is going for a ride with "Officer Friendly."

The small amount of rain we had last week did help the gardens; but it also increased the bug population 75 percent. Old Woodsmen is the suggested perfume of the day.

Another moose was killed by a car on Route 26 by the Bull Moose Campground. The lady driving the car was from Magalloway. The car was totaled.

The woods and lowlands around the lake are full of chattering colorful birds, such as Wilson's Warbler, the Yellow Breasted Chat, the beautiful Yellow Throat and Parula Warblers.

The Bird of the Week is the American Redstart. This welcome little bird is like a big butterfly when he flits, whirls and floats. The male is a dandy that fans his colorful feathers to the less spectacular but beautiful female. He is black with orange wing patches and a white belly. The female is gray-olive above and white below with yellow on her wings and tail. The males are quite territorial and protective, but he gives no help to mom, who must build her compact little bark and grass nest by herself. She lays three to five eggs with brown splotches.

This was "Blessing of the Motorcycles Weekend" in Colebrook. There were hundreds of bikes

From the

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

Welcome to our newest members: Professional River Runners of Maine, Inc., West Forks, representative Kathy Beauchamp; Apple Tree Realty, Bethel, Bonita Coffin, owner; Perfect Shades Painting & Drywall, Locke Mills, Mike Pelletier, owner.

The chamber staff has been really busy getting ready for all the upcoming events. We have been fortunate to have the help of several dedicated volunteers during the past two weeks. Many thanks to Kathy Thrall, Sandra Frye, Joanne Best, Ruth Silver and Fred Nolte.

All members and friends are invited to the upcoming Business After Hours on Tuesday, July 6, at the B.I.G. Adventure Center in the indoor rock climbing gym. Come and experience this great new Bethel area attraction between the hours of 5 and 7:30 p.m. Light refreshments will be available.

Many thanks to Sunday River Ski Resort for sponsoring an open house at their Summer Adventure Center last Friday as a fundraiser for the Davis Park Playground and to all those who attended.

Almost two dozen individuals attended the Business Visitation Program recruitment breakfast held this week. They had the opportunity to hear about the great benefits of it and about the many programs communities have been able to access after completing this program. If you were not able to attend the breakfast and are interested in helping as a volunteer interviewer or are a business willing to be interviewed, please call the chamber office.

The 10th annual Northeast Bank Bethel Art Fair is shaping up to be a great day, from dawn to past dusk. In addition to the 50 artists and artisans displaying and selling their work, we have many activities planned for folks of all ages as well as music, food and a grand set of fireworks. Many thanks to the dozens of individuals and businesses who have come forward to support the event, a memorable one for the entire community to enjoy.

From the

Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the society's annual picnic will be held on Thursday, July 1, at Pooh Corner Farm in the former town of Mason, which was named for Dr. Moses Mason in 1843. The farm can be reached by turning off U.S. Route 2 in Gilead on to the Bog Road, which is a left-hand turn driving west just after crossing the town line. The picnic will begin at 6 p.m. and will be followed by the meeting and program at 7:30 p.m. Hosts will be Richard and Carole Duplessis, owners of the property.

Speaker for the evening on the Blaine House Gardens will be State Horticulturist Ann Gibbs. Ms. Gibbs has worked as state horticulturist with the Maine Department of Agriculture for the past nine years. She holds a M.S. degree from the University of Maine and a B.S. degree from the University of Guelph. Working closely with the ornamental horticultural industry in the state, both in a regulatory and educational capacity, she also serves as an advisory trustee to the Maine Olmsted Alliance for Parks and Landscapes and continues to monitor the progress of plantings at the Blaine House. In her spare time, she loves to travel and explore new gardens and work in her own garden in Vienna because, as she says, "the plants appreciate her efforts and don't talk back." She also serves as an advisor to the Maine Landscape and Nursery Association and the Maine State Florists' and Growers' Association. Those planning to attend should bring a picnic lunch and a lawn chair if possible. Punch will be provided by the society.

The 6th annual Community Picnic, featuring a concert by the Portland Brass Quintet, will be held on Sunday, July 4, beginning at 11 a.m. The Mundt-Allen American Legion color guard will present the colors and a few remarks will be delivered by new Bethel Town Manager Scott Cole prior to the appearance of the Quintet. Those attending are urged to bring a picnic lunch to enjoy during the concert.

Funds are still being raised to support the appearance of the Quintet. To date more than $1,300 has been raised toward the cost of bringing the Quintet to Bethel for the Fourth of July. The fee this year is $1,700. Much appreciation is extended to the most recent donors: Bethel Rotary Club; Rebecca Kendall, Bethel; Eleanor Wilson, Bryant Pond; Rudy and Barb Honkala, Bethel; Judy Haskell, Bethel; Carolyn Nygren, Bethel; Henry and Patricia Stewart, Greenwood. Much appreciation is due all of the above for their generosity in making the concert possible. Those wishing to make a tax-deductible contribution should send it to the society at P.O. Box 12, Bethel, ME 04217-0012.

The Dr. Moses Mason House will open for the summer season on July 1. The hours of operation will be the same as in the past, Tuesday-Sunday, 1 to 4 p.m. Volunteers are still needed to operate the museum shop at the Robinson House during the summer, Tuesday-Sunday, 1 to 4 p.m. and also 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday. Anyone having some time to spare should call the society office at 824-2908 or Priscella Walker, Museum Shop Committee chair at 824-4284.

From the

Telstar Alumni Association

The monthly meeting of the Telstar Alumni Association was held on Tuesday, June 22, at 6:30 p.m. at the Rebel Family Restaurant. There were six members present. We had an ongoing discussion about Mollyockett Day activities -- float, information table, selling of 3-D glasses and punch. We hope people will stop by our booth and give us input on reunions that will be taking place this summer. Alumni Day is still being planned, but save this date -- Aug. 14.

The next Alumni Association meeting will be held on July 13 at 6:30 p.m. at the Rebel Family Restaurant.

Maine Community Foundation

Many area residents will have the opportunity to experience firsthand the ways the restored McLaughlin gardens in South Paris can be a resource to the community, thanks to a $2,500 grant from the Maine Community Foundation's Oxford County Fund.

The grant seeks to help the McLaughlin Foundation, which preserves the extensive gardens created by the late Bernard McLaughlin, increase local awareness of the many ways the garden is a resource for the community. Currently, the garden provides a horticultural learning experience for adults and children. The funded tours will be provided to local civic and school groups.

From the Northern Forest Heritage Park

A lively program on the process of turning wool into yarn will be sponsored by the Northern Forest Heritage Park in Berlin, N.H. on Wednesday, July 7, at 7 p.m., with Hildy Danforth sharing her talents as part of the 1999 Summer Cultural Heritage Series.

The program will be held at the Crown Vantage Training and Development Center on North Main Street, Berlin, N.H., located diagonally across from the Brown Company House Museum.

From her years of personal experience, Danforth will describe the full process of turning wool into yarn, beginning with hand carding of fleece to spinning on both spindles and a treadle wheel. "In spinning, one is continuing a tradition followed by almost all women in history, from the early Stone Ages to the last century," Danforth said. "This connection to our roots is certainly one of the reasons I like to pass the craft on to others."

For her presentation, she will bring raw, unwashed fleece, washed fleece, carded and dyed wool. "I'll bring various spinning tools to demonstrate," she said, noting she will also bring a selection of finished garments to show different applications. She is currently researching the type of spinning and knitting done in the Northern Forest region. "There was a cottage industry of hand knitting double-knit mittens for loggers," she has discovered.

Danforth has lived in Shelburne, N.H., for 26 years, where she has raised sheep and spun their wool for about half that time. Occasionally, she spins other fibers, such as cotton, silk, hemp, flax and dog hair. While she did not grow up on a farm, she noted her ancestors had a farm in Sugar Hill with some 100 sheep.

"I am interested in most traditional ways of life, and I've always been interested in weaving and textiles," Danforth said. "I taught myself to spin from a book with a little help from Ginger Parsons (the Sandwich, N.H., resident known for her spinning and teaching of the craft)." She explained that from getting the first sheep in 1986, the family's sheep flock grew to close to 20 at one time. "At this point, we have eight, all old friends, to provide us with wool, company, manure for the garden, and to serve as lawn mowers," she said.

The Northern Forest Heritage Park, located at 962 Main Street, is a charitable trust dedicated to the preservation and interpretation of the working forest story. Donations to support the summer cultural programs are greatly appreciated. For more information, and a brochure of all summer programs sponsored by NFHP, please call the office at (603) 752-7202.

From the

Grand Kids 4-H

The Grand Kids 4-H Club met June 12 at 9 a.m. We went to Hach mine in Auburn to find different rocks. We had to dig up dirt and rocks, and then we brought them to Dana. He used a screen to separate the dirt from the rocks. Then we put the rocks out on the table to look for different types of rocks. We found graphite, apatite, tourmaline, mica and quartz crystal.

At the end of the day we put all the rocks together and divided them up among us.

Business Profiles:

EVERY STEP OF THE WAY FROM THE MINE TO THE CUSTOMER—Gems and minerals from the Songo Pond Mine in Albany, from other local mines, and from mines across the world are on display and for sale at Creaser Jewelers in South Paris. Four jewelers who have worked in the Bethel area provide full service through all phases of the process of creating a unique piece of jewelry. Dennis Creaser (right), Jan Bernstein (left), Gary Haag and Merry Watson man the counter in front and the tools in the workshop—where visitors will soon be able to watch them at their craft. The shop is located at 138 Main Street and is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week.

Life is easier
 when you surround yourself with CORIAN.

It's easy and affordable to put in a CORIAN tub or shower wall kit. And it makes your life easier. Because there's no grout to scrub. Nowhere for mold and mildew to grow. And CORIAN survives the impacts, scratches and scrubbing that can wreck fiberglass, ceramic tile or cultured marble.

Spend less time cleaning and more time living. Let us show you how.
